 - 3. The Board may omit any question from or add any question to or alter any question in a paper set by an Examiner, provided that the Members of the Board are unanimous as to the necessity of making such omission, addition, or alteration.

45. CONDITIONS TO BE FULFILLED BY COL-LEGES DESIRING AFFILIATION IN SCIENCE.

Colleges desiring affiliation in Science must satisfy the Syndicate regarding—

- 1. Teaching Staff.
- 2. Accommodation.
- 3 Apparatus.

1. Teaching Staff.

Where the number of students in any class performing practical work in Physics or Chemistry exceeds sixteen, a competent Demonstrator must be provided to assist the Professor in supervision.

2. Accommodation.

Separate laboratories for Physics and Chemistry must be provided, and must be suitably equipped with furniture.

For both Chemical and Physical work an adequate supply of water is essential, and a supply of gas is at least highly desirable. No laboratory for physical work can be considered properly equipped unless it has a workshop with a lathe and the tools necessary for work both in metal and wood.

3. Apparatus.

In Chemistry, the necessary apparatus may be divided into two parts:

- (a) that required for lecture demonstration;
- (b) that required for the students' practical work.

- (a) It is recommended that Colleges be required to provide such apparatus as will enable the lecturer in Chemistry to perform all the experiments in Newth's Chemical Lecture Experiments, with the exception of those necessitating the use of Cailletet's apparatus.
- (b) The following five lists are suggested as typical of what is required by the students for practical work:—
 - (A) a list of apparatus which may be shared by two students working together;
 - (B) a list of apparatus which may be used in turn by three pairs of students, or in some cases by six single students.
 - (C) a list of apparatus which each student should have for his exclusive use;
 - (D) a list of re-agent bottles which each student should have for his analytical work;
 - (E) a list of special re-agents of which one bottle of each should be at band for each set of six students.

In addition to the apparatus and re-agent bottles as above, a supply of chemicals, specimens, etc., must be kept up sufficient for the needs of the laboratory. For this a careful estimate of the mean expenditure at a laboratory for four years works out to Rs. 45 per head per annum, not including the up-keep of lecture apparatus.

This covers expenses only when several students are working in a laboratory. Each College wishing to become affiliated in Science should—

 (i) provide, initially, the apparatus as mentioned above, and (ii) guarantee Rs. 45 per head per annum, with a minimum of Rs. 540 per annum, for the up-keep of the laboratory.

In Physics the apparatus required for the Practical course will also, in general, be used on the lecture table, but besides this further illustrative apparatus is required. This should be for the most part simple and cheap, and such as a clever workman could turn out from a well-equipped College workshop. The expenditure of large sums on the purchase of elaborate and highly finished pieces of merely illustrative apparatus is particularly to be deprecated. Money so spent is usually to a large extent wasted, for such apparatus often brings into undue prominence some subsidiary aspect of the experiment, at the same time obscuring, more or less completely, the leading idea. Besides, simple apparatus made locally arouses the interest of the student to a greater degree, and suggests the possibility of his making the apparatus for himself, which is an important step in the training of a teacher of Science. Herein lies the advantage of a wellequipped College workshop. While saving money, it benefits the student.

Money should not, on the other hand, be economized over apparatus for the Practical course. Here the students require instruments of the best quality. capable of determining exact measurements and not mere scientific toys. The standard for the B.Sc. Degree demands a thorough practical training in scientific manipulation and physical measurements, and for this reliable instruments are indispensable.

Colleges applying for affiliation in Science should have their laboratories equipped with the apparatus necessary for performing the experiments prescribed in the Calendar for the Practical course in Physics.

4. Inspection.

Colleges desiring affiliation will be required to submit their laboratories and equipments to the examination of Inspectors, who will report on them to the Syndicate.

46. RULES FOR THE LICENSING OF HOSTELS.

The Manager or Secretary of a Hostel at which students reading in Colleges affiliated to the University reside, who desires to have his institution placed upon the list of Licensed Hostels, should apply to the Syndicate, through the Registrar, sending a copy of the rules of the institution, together with a sketch plan of the buildings and grounds. The Syndicate, after satisfying itself that due provision has been made in the rules for the proper management of the institution, will depute a member or a board of members of the University to inspect the institution and report to it upon the arrangements made for board, lodging, moral discipline, recreation and resident supervision. Syndicate, after consideration of the report, will inform the Manager or Secretary whether his institution can or cannot be placed upon the list of Licensed Hostels; and in the event of the application being refused, the reasons for refusal will be communicated to him.

The Syndicate recommend that the Resident Superintendent of a Licensed Hostel should in every case be a man of education and good social position, capable not only of commanding the respect of the students but of influencing their conduct, assisting them in their studies, and interesting himself in their social life.

- 2. A Licensed Hostel will be open to inspection at any time by the Principals of Colleges who have students resident at the hostels and by a member or a board of members of the University deputed by the Syndicate to visit it.
- 3. A Licensed Hostel will be required to maintain and produce for inspection when called for an admission register, a register of attendance and a conduct register.
- 4. Any alterations in the rules of a Licensed Hostel or change in the Resident Superintendent must at once be reported to the Syndicate for confirmation, failing which the license will be liable to be withdrawn.
- 5. The Principal of a College will be expected to satisfy himself that the management of a Licensed Hostel in which students of his College reside is maintained in accordance with the conditions under which it received its license, and to report to the Syndicate if it is not.
- 6. Students expelled from Colleges under the provisions of the Inter-Collegiate Rules are not admissible to any Licensed Hostel.

- 7. The Superintendent of a Licensed Hostel should send monthly lists of the students residing in the hostel to the Principals of Colleges concerned; and should report to them cases of serious misconduct.
- 8. License will not be taken away from a hostel by the Syndicate without a full statement in writing of the grounds for withdrawal having been previously communicated to the Manager and his written explanation having been taken.

OR CAMBRIDGE BY NATIVES OF INDIA.*

RESOLUTION.

In Home Department Resolution No. 360, dated 30th June, 1868, a scheme was promulgated for the creation of a certain number of Government scholarships tenable in England by Natives of India. It was explained that the object of creating the scholarships was to encourage Natives of India to resort more freely to England for the purpose of perfecting their education and of studying for the various learned professions or for the Civil and other services in India. In a subsequent Resolution, dated 18th January, 1870, the circumstances were set forth under which it had been determined to hold this scheme in abeyance. For some time past the Government of India has been in communication with Her Majesty's Secretary of State regarding the re-establishment of a limited number of Government scholarships tenable in England by Natives of India, and the Governor-General in Council is glad to be able now to announce that it has been decided to bring into immediate operation a scheme which, it is hoped, will have the effect of offering a certain measure of encouragement to the youths of this country to proceed to England for the purpose of completing their education either at the University of Oxford or at the University of Cambridge.

^{*}These scholarships were instituted by Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{1}{45-57}$, dated the 12th February, 1886, No. $\frac{9}{269-81}$, dated the 23rd August, 1886, and No. $\frac{3}{38-49}$, dated 30th January, 1885,

2. Six scholarships, the cost of which will be defrayed by the Government of India, will be at once established, tenable in England by persons who are Natives of India within the meaning of Section 6 of the Statute 33 Vic., Cap. 3. The scholarships will be placed at the disposal of the Universities of Calcutta, Bombay, Madras and the Punjab in rotation,* one scholarship being given to each of the first two Universities during the present year (1886), and one

^{*} Under Resolution, dated 17th October, 1888, consequent upon the establishment of the Allahabad University, the Government of India has decided "that, with effect from the year 1880, each of the Universities concerned shall participate in the scholarships in the following sequence":—

Allahabad Madras	}	1899	Calcutta Bombay	}	1903	Madras Punjab	}	1907
Punjab Calcutta	}	1900	Allahabad Madras	}	1904	Calcutta Bombay	}	1908

scholarship to each of the last two during next year (1887). In allotting the scholarships in future years the same order will be observed.

- 3. Each scholarship will entitle the holder to an allowance, not exceeding £200 per annum, payable from the date of his arrival in England, and will be tenable for three years. No candidate should be more than 21 years of age. Each candidate to whom a scholarship may be awarded will be required to proceed to England within a reasonable period from the date of his selection, and to reside there for a period of three years, unless compelled to return sooner by ill-health.
- 4. Each scholar will be entitled to receive a sum of £100* for passage-money, and a similar sum will be payable within one month before his actual return to India if he should complete the full period of three years' residence, or be compelled by sickness to return before the completion of that period.
- 5. It is intended to reserve to the scholars the power of selecting, once for all, the course of study to be followed by them in England. Each scholar will be required to bind himself by written engagement to submit to such regulations as may, from time to time, be framed by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the guidance of scholars.

^{*}By Resolution of Government of India, duted 2nd February, 1895, it is notified that, in future, Second Classfaccommodation only by Railway in India, and on the Sea-voyage to London, will be allowed to persons selected to hold State Scholarships tenable in England.

- 6. If any scholar, not being disabled by sickness, fails to complete a residence of three years in England, or is guilty of gross misconduct or disregard of the orders of Her Majesty's Secretary of State, he will, at the discretion of the Secretary of State, forfeit his scholarship and further be liable to refund the sum drawn by him as passage-money.
- 7. Scholars will be expected to reach England before the opening of the October term at the University of Oxford or Cambridge, to one of which University they will be required to proceed.

RULES FOR THE SELECTION OF CANDIDATES FOR THE STATE SCHOLARSHIPS TENABLE IN ENGLAND BY NATIVES OF INDIA.

- 1. The Syndicate shall in the year in which a State Scholarship tenable in England is placed at the disposal of the University, and as soon as may be reasonably practicable after the results of the Examination in such year for the Degree of B.A. have been ascertained by the Syndicate, and at any other time or times as occasion may arise, select for the scholarship a person who is qualified in the manner specified by Rule 2.

3. CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY.

Report of the Council of the Senate on the Affiliation of the University of Allahabad; confirmed by the Senate on 21st November, 1895, as per letter dated Cambridge, 29th June, 1896.

21st October, 1895.

THE COUNCIL OF THE SENATE beg leave to report to the Senate as follows:—

In course of last year the Vice-Chancellor received from the Registrar of the University of Allahabad an application for the affiliation of that University to the University of Cambridge. The Council have found that the constitution and scheme of examinations of the University of Allahabad closely resemble those of the University of Calcutta, and that the two Universities recognise each other on equal terms, the Examinations and degrees of the one being accepted as equivalent by the other. The Council therefore decided that they would be prepared to recommend to the Senate that the application for affiliation be granted on terms similar to those approved by Grace I of 5th March, 1895, for the University of Calcutta; and they communicated with the authorities of the University of Allahabad to this effect. They have now received an acceptance on the part of that University of the terms proposed.

The Council accordingly recommend -

- 1. That the University of Allahabad be adopted as an institution affiliated to the University of Cambridge.
- 2. That any matriculated student of the University of Allahabad be entitled to be admitted to the privileges of affiliation who has (1) in accordance with the regulations of that University studied for not less than two years at one or more Institutions for the education of adult students affiliated in Arts up to the B.A. standard; (2) passed the Entrance Examination, and also passed in the First Division in the Intermediate Examination in Arts or in the First or Second Division in the Examination for the Degree of Bachelor of Arts of that University: provided that in one of these

CANNING COLLEGE, LUCKNOW.

Affiliated in Arts, 1888; in Science, 1896; in Law, 1888.

This College, founded by the Taluqdars of Oudh in memory of the late Earl Canning, was opened on the 1st of May, 1864. The institution comprises three departments,—the College proper, a Law Department, and an Oriental Department, in which only Sanskrit, Persian and Arabic are taught.

Canning College is supported by the Taluqdars of Oudh aided by Government. By a Sanad, duly executed, the Taluqdars unanimously endowed the College in perpetuity with a percentage of the revenues of their taluks. This sum, amounting on an average to forty-one thousand rupees per annum, is collected by the officers of Government, and is deposited in the Government Treasury for the use of the College. A Government grant-in-aid to the amount of twenty-five thousand rupees is also enjoyed by the College. The total income from endowment, grant-in-aid, invested funds and fees aggregates eighty-one thousand rupees per annum.

The institution is open to all classes, and its object, as declared by the rules, is to impart instruction in the English Language and Literature, in Mathematics and Science, in Law and in the Oriental Classical Languages. Its management is vested in a Committee consisting of the Commissioner of Lucknow, the Deputy Commissioner, the Inspector of Schools, Oudh Circle, District Judge, the Executive Engineer, the Principal, and the representatives of the Taluqdars. In 1818 Ganga Dhar Shastri bequeathed to the East India Company the rents of certain lands in the districts of Aligarh and Muttra for the promotion of education. In accordance with the Shastri's will, Agra College was opened in 1823, the endowment then yielding over Rs.22,000 a year. Subsequently Government added to the income, and raised the College to its present status.

In 1883 the management was transferred to a Board of Trustees. The College now receives annual grants of Rs. 12,000 from Government and Rs. 2,500 from the Municipality of Agra, in addition to the original endowment. At the time of the transfer the Trustees made an appeal to the noblemen and gentlemen of the Province of Agra, and a lakh of rupees was added to the endowment, while the capital of the Scholarship Fund was raised from Rs. 25,000 to Rs. 45,000. ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE, AGRA.

Affiliated in Arts, 1888, 1890, 1893; IN Law, 1891.

This College was established in 1850, and its foundation was chiefly due to the efforts of an influential body of Civilians and Military Officers, who were at that time members of the Local Committee of the Church Missionary Society; the Hon'ble J. R. Colvin, Lieutenant-Governor of the N.-W. P., being the Patron, and Sir William Muir, the President.

Their desire was to found a College for the education of the higher classes of Indian youths upon strictly Christian principles, as they felt that such an institution was greatly needed in order to create a higher moral and spiritual tone among those classes.

In more recent years, owing to the rapid growth of the Indian Chiristian community, the object of the institution has become somewhat changed. Whilst welcoming, as before, all Hindus and Muhammadans desirous of receiving a liberal education under Christian influences, the College has become recognised more specially as an institution where the education of Indian Christian youth is made a matter of primary importance. The following High Schools of the Church Missionary Society are affiliated to St. John's College, viz:—

Robert Money Institution, Bombay.
 St. John's Collegiate School, Agra.
 Church Mission High School, Azamgarh.
 ", ", Basti.
 ", Jaunpur.
 ", Jabalpur.
 ", ", Lucknow.
 ", ", Meerut.
 Jai Narain's College, Benares.

The Christian students of these schools are eligible for various scholarships and other concessions, according to merit and circumstances. The buildings and conveniences have been considerably increased in recent years. They consist of the College; the School; Hostels for Christians and Hindus; a College-chapel; a swimming bath, etc. The College consists of three sections, viz:—

1.—An unaided College Department, with classes in Arts, Science, and Law.

QUESTION PAPERS.

ENTRANCE AND SCHOOL FINAL EXAMINATIONS, 1905.

ENGLISH.

FIRST PAPER.

A.

- 1. Explain the following passages, giving the substance of the context in each case:—
 - (a) "The butterfly is glancing bright Across the sunbeam's track; I care not now to chase its flight— Oh, call my brother back!"
 - (b) Ass waited a moment, as gentlemen can,And then, "Not presuming to teach," he began,"Permit me to say, since my thoughts you invite,I always saw things in a different light."
 - (c) When the settled season began to come in, the thought of my design returned with the fair weather, and I was preparing daily for the voyage: the first thing I did was to lay by a certain quantity of provisions, being the stores for our voyage; and intended, in a week or fortnight's time, to open the dock, and launch out our boat. I was busy one morning upon something of this kind, when I called to Friday, and bid him go to the sea shore and see if he could find a turtle, a thing which we generally got once a week, for the sake of the eggs as well as the flesh. Friday had not been long gone, when he came running back, and flew over my outer wall, or fence, like one that felt not the ground: and before I had time to speak to him, he cried out to me, "O Master! O Master! O Sorrow! O bad!"

- (d) The effect of this devotion of elegant minds to rural occupations has been wonderful on the face of the country. A great part of the island is rather level, and would be monotonous were it not for the charms of culture; but it is studded and gemmed, as it were, with castles and palaces, and embroidered with parks and gardens.
- 2. Write a short account, not exceeding two pages of your answer book, of the wreck of Crusoe's vessel and of his landing in the island.

B.

1. Write short notes on the following :-

Trainband captain; Cophetua; Brave Kempenfelt; Norman's Woe.

- 2. Give, in your own words, the meaning of each of the following:—last night the moon had a golden ring; high-water mark; a shoulder-of-mutton sail; a tart temper never mellows; a world of staid counsel; make a Star-Chamber matter of it.
 - 3. Give an account of Rip van Winkle's return to his village.

C.

1. Reproduce from memory (a) two stanzas of the poem entitled 'the Wreck of the Hesperus' beginning with the line 'And fast through the midnight dark and drear'; (b) the last Stanza of 'After Blenheim' beginning with the words 'And everybody praised the Duke.'

2. (a) Give in your own words the substance of the following passage:—

How much, thought I, has each of these volumes, now thrust aside with such indifference, cost some aching head! how many weary days! how many sleepless nights! How have their authors buried themselves in the solitude of cells and cloisters; shut themselves up from the face of man, and the still more blessed face of nature; and devoted themselves to painful research and intense reflection! And all for what? to occupy an inch of dusty shelf—to have the title of their works read now and then in a future age, by some drowsy churchman or casual straggler like myself; and in another age to be lost, even to remembrance. Such is the amount of this boasted immortality.

(b) In the following stanzas explain the italicised portions:-

"And now when busy crowds retire To take their evening rest,
The Hermit trimmed his little fire,
And cheered his pensive guest.
And spread his vegetable store,
And gaily pressed, and smiled;
And skilled in legendarg lore
The lingerng hours beguiled."

6. How can we tell whether a given sentence is Simple, Complex, or Compound in form? Combine the following two sentences into (1) a Complex sentence, (2) a Compound sentence:—

He is but a child. He is remarkably intelligent.

7. Analyse in tabular form :-

And as Nature, who gives supplies of food to every creature, dictats even naturally how to make use of such food, so I, that had never milked a cow, much less a goat, or seen butter or cheese made, except only when I was a boy, after a great many essays and miscarriages, made me both butter and cheese at last, and also salt, and never wanted for them afterwards.

F.

- 8. Express the following in the indirect form of speech, taking care to use appropriate reporting verbs:—

3. Translate the following into Persian :-

We live in a time of hurry and hard work; it is very necessary, therefore, that we should have rest and change of occupation. Boys and girls at school, who spend so many hours in poring over books, should have regular holidays and sufficient time for play every day. They need not be idle, a change of occupation often being better than a complete rest. For the man who works with his hands physical recreation is not so necessary; he finds sufficient exercise in his daily employment. It is better that he should spend his spare time in reading or study. Many working-men have attained to great honor by the diligent use of their leisure. Few have the ability to be great writers or men of science.

When they had done so, he placed the faggot into the hands of each of them in succession, and ordered them to break it in pieces. They each tried with all their strength, and were not able to do it. He next unclosed the faggot and took the sticks separately, one by one, and again put them into their hands, on which they broke them easily. He then addressed them in these words:—

The Bear soon left him, for it is said he will not touch a dead body. When he was quite gone the other traveller descended from the tree, and accosting his friend, jocularly inquired "what it was the Bear had whispered in his ear?" He replied, "He gave me this advice: Never travel with a friend who deserts you at the approach of danger."

DICTATION.

I .- RAPID WRITING.

Write out the following in 10 minutes:

A. Prisoners of war are those who are captured from the enemy during naval or military operations. By the laws or recognized principles of war, the entire people of a vanquished town, state, or nation become the absolute property of the victors. In ancient times the treatment of prisoners of war was very severe. In the Greek wars it was no uncommon thing to put the whole adult male population of a conquered state to the sword, while the women and children were enslaved. Although the putting to death of prisoners became less frequent, they and their families were commonly reduced to slavery to as recent a period as the 13th century. The act of Napoleon in putting to death the Turkish prisoners of war at Jaffa in 1799 was universally condemned, and is probably the last instance of such barbarity. By degrees the more humane custom of exchanging prisoners came into practice, those not exchanged being kept in confinement on very poor fare. Notwithstanding frequent exchanges, large numbers of prisoners accumulate during war. In 1811 about 47,600 French were prisoners in England, while 10,300 English languished in the prisons of France.

Or the following in 12 minutes:

B. After a desultory warfare which produced little permanent result, the siege was begun in the year B. C. 406. Year after year it continued with varying success. The position of the city made it impossible for the assailants to blockade it completely and to reduce it by famine. The Romans, however, clung tenaciously to their purpose and maintained the siege at all seasons of the year. This was an entirely new feature in Roman warfare, and compelled them to adopt a most important change in their military system. Up to this time the soldiers had fought without pay, and had even supplied themselves with food, returning always in the autumn season to their own homes to harvest their crops. Now, however, that they were required to remain under the standard for several years in succession, they could no longer maintain themselves. The government perceived the necessity and yielded to it. Pay was granted to the troops from the public treasury. This was the first step towards the establishment of a standing army and of a regular profession of arms. Without it the leaders of the legions could never have advanced the eagles far beyond the seven hills; but with it followed with inevitable sequence the elevation of the leaders themselves into candidates for sovereign power.

Write out the following letter in 10 minutes, in a form fit for despatching.

A.

TRINITY COLLEGE, CAMBRIDGE.

October 1st, 1824.

My dear Father,—I was elected Fellow this morning, shall be sworn in to-morrow, and hope to leave Cambridge on Tuesday. The examiners speak highly of the manner in which I acquitted myself, and I have reason to believe that I stood first of the candidates.

I need not say how much I am delighted by my success and how much I enjoy the thought of the pleasure which it will afford to you, my mother, and our many friends. Till I become a Master of Arts next July the pecuniary emolument which I shall derive will not be great; but for seven years from that time it will make me almost an independent man.

Malden is elected. You will take little interest in the rest of our Cambridge success and disappointments.

Yours most affectionately,

HINDI.

- 1. Subject for an original letter in Hindi to contain about as much matter as 40 lines of an ordinary Hindi newspaper—
 - (a) Difference between self-respect and self-conceit,
- or (b) The effects of a charitable disposition.

Address the letter, using the proper form of address, to a friend of yours, who may have been the object of contention in your social assembly.

- 2. Translate the following extracts into Hindi-
- (a) Every man of the upper or middle class went daily to his coffee house to learn the news and to discuss it. Every coffee-house had one or more orators, to whose eloquence the crowd listened with admiration, and who soon became, what the journalists of our time have been called, a fourth Estate of the realm. The Court had long seen with uneasiness the growth of this new power in the state. An attempt had been made to close the coffee-houses. But men of all parties missed their usual places of resort so much that there was an universal outcry. The Government did not venture, in opposition to a feeling so strong and general, to enforce a regulation of which the legality might well be questioned Since that time ten years had elapsed, and during those years the number and influence of the coffee-houses had been constantly increasing.
- (b) Nowhere could be found that restless compassion which has, in our time, extended a powerful protection to the factory child, to the Hindu widow, to the negro slave, which pries into the stores and watercasks of every emigrant ship, which winces at every lash on the back of a drunken soldier, which will not suffer the thief in the hulks to be ill-fed or overworked, and which has repeatedly endeavoured to save the life even of the murderer. It is true that compassion ought, like all other feelings, to be under the Government of reason, and has, for want of such government, produced some ridiculous and some deplorable effects. But the more we study the annals of the past, the more shall we rejoice that we live in a merciful age, in an age in which cruelty is abhorred, and in which pain, even when deserved, is inflicted reluctantly and from a sense of duty.

INTERMEDIATE EXAMINATION.

ENGLISH.

FIRST PAPER-POETRY.

- 1. Write in simple English the meaning of the following passages:—
 - (α) For we are all, like swimmers in the sea,
 Pois'd on the top of a huge wave of fate,
 Which langs uncertain to which side to fall.
 And whether it will heave us up to land,
 Or whether it will roll us out to sea,
 Back out to sea, to the deep waves of death,
 We know not, and no search will make us know:
 Only the event will teach us in its hour.
 - None of these (b) Came from his country, or could answer him, If questioned ought of what he cared to know. And dull the voyage was with long delays, The vessel scarce sea-worthy; but evermore His fancy fled before the lazy wind Returning, till beneath a clouded moon He like a lover down thro' all his blood Drew in the dewy meadowy morning-breath Of England, blown across her ghostly wall: And that same morning officers and men Levied a kindly tax upon themselves, Pitying the lonely man, and gave him it: Then moving up its coast they landed him, Ev'n in that harbour whence he sail'd before.
- 2. Explain the meaning of the italicised portions in any two of the following extracts:—
 - (a) Less lucky her home-voyage: at first indeed Through many a fair sea-circle, day by day,

Scarce-rocking, her full-busted figure-head Stared o'er the the ripple feathering from her bows: Then follow'd calms, and then winds variable, Then baffling, a long course of them; and last Storm, such as drove her under moonless heavens Till hard upon the cry of 'breakers' came The crash of ruin, and the loss of all But Enoch and two others. Half the night Buoy'd upon floating tackle and broken spars, These drifted, standing on an isle at morn Rich, but the loneliest in a lovely sea.

- All down his cold white side (b) The crimson torrent pour'd, dim now, and soil'd, Like the soil'd tissue of white violets Left, freshly gather'd, on their native bank, By remping children, whom their nurses call From the hot fields at noon: his head droop'd low, His limbs grew slack; motionless, white, he lay-White, with eyes clos'd; only when heavy gasps, Deep, heavy gasps quivering through all his frame, Convuls'd him back to life, he opened them, And fix'd them feebly on his father's face; Till now all strength was ebbed, and from his limbs Unwillingly the spirit fled away, Regretting the warm mansion which it left, And youth and bloom and this delightful world.
- (c) As some rich woman, on a winter's morn,

 Eyes through her silken curtains the poor drudge

 Who with numb blacken'd fingers makes her fire

 At cock-crow on a star-lit winter's morn,

 When the frost flowers the whiten'd window-panes—

 And wonders how she lives, and what the thoughts

 Of that poor drudge may be; so Rustom ey'd

 The unknown adventurous Youth, who from afar

Came seeking Rustom, and defying forth All the most valiant chiefs.

- (d) But when the last of those last moments came, 'Annie, my girl, cheer up, be comforted, Look to the babes, and till I come again Keep everything ship-shape, for I must go. And fear no more for me: or if you fear Cast all your cares on God; that anchor holds Is he not yonder in those uttermost Parts of the morning? If I flee to these Can I go from him? and the sea is His. The sea is His. He made it.'
- 3. Refer the following similes to the context, and show their appropriateness:—
 - (a) Like some rich hyacinth, which by a scythe Of an unskilful gardener has been cut, Mowing the garden grass-plot near its bed And lies, a fragrant tower of purple bloom, On the mown, dying grass;
 - (b) As when some little cloudCuts off the fiery highway of the sun,And isles a light in the offing:
 - 4. (a) Express the following passage in Indirect Speech:—
 "Thou strick'st too hard: that club of thine will float
 Upon the summer-floods, and not my bones.
 But rise and be not wrath; not wrath am I?
 No, when I see thee, wrath forsakes my soul.
 Thou say'st thou art not Rustum: be it so.
 Who art thou then, that canst so touch my soul
 Boy as I am, I have seen battles too;
 Have waded foremost in their bloody wayes,
 And heard their hollow roar of dying men;
 But never was my heart thus touchedbefore.

(b) Analyse the following sentence, and parse the words in italics:—

So eager was the queen that her story should be believed, that nothing so much pleased her as an indication that credit was attached to it.

5. The Silent Voices.

When the dumb Hour, clothed in black Brings the Dreams about my bed, Call me not so often back, Silent voices of the dead, Toward the the lowland ways behind me, And the sunlight that is gone! Call me rather, silent voices, Forward to the starry track Glimmering up the heights beyond me On, and always on.

- (i) What does Tennyson mean in the above passage by 'the silent voices,' the dumb hour clothed in black' and 'the sunlight that is gone.'
 - (ii) Give the general sense of the above passage.
- 6. When a language has been cultivated in any particular department of thought, and so far as it has been generally perfected, an existing want has been supplied, and there is no need for further workmen. In its earlier times, while it is yet unformed, to write in it at all is almost a work of genius, It is like crossing a country before roads are made communicating between place and place. The authors of that age deserve to be Classics, both because of what they do and because they can do it. It requires the courage or the force of great talent to compose in the language at all; and the compositon when effected, makes a permanent impression on it. In those early times; too, the license of speech unfettered by precedents, the novetly of the work, the state of society, and the absence of criticism, enable an author to write with spirit and freshness. But, as centuries pass on, this stimulus is taken away; the language by this time has become manageable for its various purposes, and is ready at command. Ideas have found their corresponding expressions; and one word will often convey what once required half a dozen.

- (i) In the passage above, what is meant by the cultivation of a language in a "particular department of thought?"
 - (ii) Explain the italicised words and phrases.
- (iii) Describe in what way a literary composition may make "a permanent impression" on a language.
- (iv) What is the "stimulus" referred to in the passage above?
- (v) Expand and illustrate the thought conveyed in the sentence "Ideas have found their corresponding impressions."

SECOND PAPPER-PROSE.

- 1. Answer the questions on one only of the following passages, either (a) or (b):—
- (a) "That day's victory would have spared him his defeat at Acre,—his only disgrace for to have been defeated by Nelson upon the seas would not have been disgraceful; and it would have spared him all his after enormities. Hitherto his career had been glorious; the baneful principles of his heart had never yet passed his lips; history would have represented him as a soldier of fortune, who had faithfully served the cause in which he engaged, and whose career had been distinguished by a series of successes unexampled in modern times. A romantic obscurity would have hung over the expedition to Egypt, and he would have escaped the perpetration of those crimes which have incarnadined his sout with a deeper dye than that of the purple for which he committed them."

- (1) Give, in simple English, the meaning of the following sentences:—
 - "History would have represented him as a soldier of fortune."
 - "Whose career had been distinguished by a series of successes unexampled in modern times."
 - "A romantic obscurity would have hung over the expedition to Egypt."
 - (2) Explain fully the metaphor and allusions in-
 - "The baneful principles of his heart had never yet passed his lips."
 - "He would have escaped the perpetration of those crimes which have incarnadined his soul with a deeper dye than that of the purple for which he committed them."
- (3) Parse the words in thick type, and account for and name the moods and tenses of the verbs among them.
- (*) Explain concisely the argument of the whole passage, pointing out the contingency referred to, and making all historical allusions clear.
- (b) "Great actions, whether military or naval, have generally given celebrity to the scenes from whence they are denominated, and thus petty villages, and capes, and bays, known only to the coasting trader, become associated with mighty deeds, and their names are made conspicuous in the history of the world. Here, however, the scene was every way worthy of the drama. The political importance of the Sound is such that grand objects are not needed there to impress the imagination, yet is the channel full of grand and interesting objects both of art and nature. This passage which Denmark had so long considered as the key of the Baltic, is in its narrowest part about three miles wide, and here the city of Elsinore is situated, except Copenhagen the most flourishing of the Danish towns."

- (1) Give, in simple English, the meaning of-
 - "Thus petty villages, and capes, and bays, known only to the coasting trader, become associated with mighty deeds."
 - "The political importance of the Sound is such that grand objects are not needed there to impress the imagination."
 - "Which Denmark had so long considered as the key of the Baltic."
- (2) Explain fully the metaphor in—
 "The Scene—the Drama."
- (3) Parse the words in thick type, and account for the mood and tense of the verbs among them.
- (4) State as concisely as you can the general purport of the above passage. What interesting objects of nature and art are in the neighbourhood of the Sound?
- 2. Answer the questions on one only of the following passages, either (a) or (b)—
- (a) "But the last of the Knights was a gentleman, and the meek dignity of his hostess had hindered him from pressing on her any distasteful subject until her son's explanation of the uncertainty of her husband's death had precluded all mention of this intention. Besides, Maximilian was himself greatly charmed by Ebbo's own qualities—partly perhaps as an intelligent auditor, but also by his good sense, high spirit, and, above all, by the ready and delicate tact that had both penetrated and respected the disguise. Moreover, Maximilian, though a faulty, was a devout man, and could appreciate the youth's unswerving truth under circumstances that did, in effect, imperil him more nearly than his guest."
 - (1) Give, in simple English, the meaning of-
- "The last of the Knights was a gentleman," "distasteful subject, "intelligent auditor," "unswerving truth."

- (2) Explain how meekness can be combined with dignity: faultiness with devotion; and what is meant by "ready and delicate tact"?
- (3) Explain briefly the allusion contained in the last sentence.
- (4) State briefly, in one sentence, Maximilian's intention, and the reasons for his abandonment of it.
- (b) "Under Maximilian, the Diet became an effective council, fist-right was abolished, independent robber-lords put down, civilization began to effect an entrance, the system of circles was arranged, and the Empire again became a leading power in Europe, instead of a mere vortex of disorder and misrule. Never would Charles V have held the position he occupied had he come after an ordinary man, instead of after an able and sagacious reformer like that Maximilian, who is popularly regarded as a fantastic caricature of a knight-errant marred by avarice and weakness of purpose."
- (1) Give in simple English, the meaning of—
 "Effective council," "leading power," "fantastic caricature," "knight-errant."
- (2) Explain, so as to bring out any antithesis or shade of meaning—
- "Disorder and misrule," "able and sagacious," "vortex and system."
- (3) State briefly, in your own words, the two views held about Maximilian, and the reason given for the one put forward.

Explain-

(a) "I cannot spare him, Sir," cried Ebbo—" priest, scholar, minstrel, artist—all want him."

"What, Hans of all streets, Ebbo?"

"And guildmaster of none," said Ebbo, "save as a warrior: the rest only enough for a gentleman!"

- (b) "Not only that, Sir, but old iron is not a whit stronger than new steel, though the one looks full of might, and you would think the other but a toy."
- (c) "It is upon record that a battle between two armies was once broken off by an earthquake; such an event would be felt like a miracle; but no incident in war, produced by burnan means, has ever equalled the sublimity of this co-instantaneous pause and all its circumstances."
- (d) "Duke of Thunder was what in Dahomey would be called a strong name. It was to a sailor's taste and certainly to no man could it ever be more applicable."
- (e) "If your guns are not better pointed than your pens, you will make little impression on Copenhagen."
- (f) "Close with a Frenchman," he used to say, "but outmanœuvre a Russian."
- 4. Write, as a short piece of English composition, an account of Nelson's famous disregard of Sir Hyde Parker's signal of recall at the battle of the Baltic, keeping closely to the following outline, and putting all speeches, except the famous one in the indirect form.

Circumstances under which the signal was made and the reasons for making it—Position of Nelson's ship at the time, and the state of affairs on deck—the very close shot and Nelson's remarks after it—The communication of the signal, No. 39, by the signal lieutenant—Nelson's first reception of it, and subsequent order about it—His anxiety and decisive order about his own signal—His agitation and signs of emotion—His discussion with Mr. Ferguson as to the reason for their hoisting No. 39—His famous action and speech and his final defiant orders.

- 5. Write a short essay, illustrating your remarks by references to the prose books of the course, upon one of the following subjects:—
 - (a) False and True views of Gentlemanliness.

- (b) Education from Surroundings compared with that from Books.
 - (c) Naval Warfare in Nelson's time.
- (d) Nelson's character as a man: his good and weak points.

কোন ব্যক্তি যথাইই বলিয়াছেন " যেখানে ইছ্ছা, সেখানে (ইছ্ছা পূর্ণ করিবার) পথ ও অছো "। এ বিষয়ে কোন সন্দেহ নাই যে, ইছ্ছাতে একটা বিশেষ শক্তি আছে। স্বারো নামক সেনাপতি বখন কাহাকেও পরাজিত হইতে দেখিতেন, তখন তাহাকে এই কথা বলিতেন যে, তোমার এই কার্য্যে সম্পূর্ণ ইছ্ছা ছিল না। সম্রাট্ নেপোলিরন বলিতেন যে "অসম্ভব" শক্ত কোষ হইতে বাহির করিয়া দেওয়া উচিত। "আমি জানি না" "আমি করিতে পারি না" ইত্যাদি সারহীন বাক্যে তাহার নিতান্ত যুগা ছিল। তিনি সর্কান বলিতেন "শিক্ষা কর, উদ্বোগ কর"। নেপোলিরন আপনাকে কি করিয়া তুলিয়াছিলেন, তাহা সকলেই অবগত আছেন। এক সময় নেপোলিরন কোন স্থানে যুগবাত্রার বাহির হইয়াছিলেন।

কোন সৈনিক আসিয়া তাঁহাকে বলিল যে, আল্প্স্ পর্বত মধ্যপথে অবরোধ করিয়া দাঁড়াইয়া আছে। তাহা উল্লেখন করিয়া যাওয়া সুকঠিন। তিনি উত্তর দিলেন যে, বদ্যপি আল্প্স্ পর্বত পথ অবরোধ করিয়া আছে বটে কিন্তু, আর দাঁড়াইয়া থাকিতে পারিবে না। অবশেষে সেই পর্বতের মধ্য দিয়া এক দিক্ হইতে অপর দিক্ পর্যন্ত মার্গ প্রস্তুত করিয়া দেওয়া হইল. এবং পূর্বের যাহা ছুরুহ বলিয়া ধারণা হইয়াছিল, তাহা স্বভ হইয়া গেল। নেপোলিয়ন এত পরিশ্রম করিতেন যে, তাহা দেখিয়া লোকে চমৎকৃত হইত। চারিজন কর্মচারী লিখিতে লিখিতে পরিশ্রান্ত হইয়া পড়িত, কিন্তু তিনি প্রান্ত হইতেন না। তাঁহাকে দেখিয়া লোকের দেহে যেন প্রাণসঞ্চার হইত, এবং মুমূর্ব্ ব্যক্তিও যেন বাঁচিয়া উঠিত। তিনি বলিতেন যে, আমি আপনার সেনাপতিদিগকে জড় ইইতে সচেতন করিয়া দিয়াছি। কিন্তু ইহা বড় শোচনীয় বিষয় যে, এরূপ মহাপুরুষ হইয়াও তিনি অভান্ত স্বার্থপর ছিলেন। এই কারণে ফ্রান্স দেশের সর্ব্বনাশ হয়। তিনি যদি সজ্জন হইদেন, তাহা হইলে কত বড় বড় কার্য্য করিয়া যাইদেন। বস্ততঃ যাবৎ মন্ত্র্যা সৎ না হইতে পারে, তাবৎ তাহার সাহদের ও পৌরুষের কোনই ফল হয় না। অধিকন্ত তাহার ঘারা নানাবিধ দোষের প্রসার হয়।

In a certain town there were two men neighbours, who lived next door to each other. One of them was so excessively envious of the other that the latter resolved to change his abode, and go and reside at some distance from him. He therefore sold his house, and went to another city at no great distance, and bought a convenient house. It had a good garden and a moderate court, in which there was a deep well that was not now used.

The good man having made this purchase, put on the habit of a dervish, and in a short time he established a numerous society of dervishes. He soon came to be known by his virtue, through which he acquired the esteem of many people, as well as of the commonalty as of the chief of the city.

Mahmud's taste for architecture, whether egendered, or only developed, by what he witnessed at Muthra and Canouj, displayed itself in full perfection after his return from that expedition. He then founded the mosque called "The Celestial Bride," which, in that age, was the wonder of the East. It was built of marble and granite, of such beauty as to strike every beholder with astonishment, and was furnished with rich carpets and candelabras, and other ornaments of silver and gold. It is probable, from the superiority long possessed by Indian architects, that the novelty and elegance of the design had even a greater effect than the materials in commanding so much admiration.

"The well-known and well-beloved "Moonlight Sonata' whose power and beauty will delight for ages, is the subject of a very pretty story.

It is said that Beethoven passed, in the course of one of his rambling walks, a lonely street in the suburbs of Vienna, and heard from an open window the strains of his own music-The music came from a room on the ground-floor, and when he approached he saw a young girl sitting at the piano and a child listening to her. Impulsive as he was, he at once entered, saying, "I know that piece. What makes you play it? Does it please you?" "I love all Beethoven's compositions," said the young girl in a sweet, quiet voice, without showing any surprise at being thus interrupted by a stranger. But the child came quietly towards him, saying, "My sister is blind, and music is her only joy. What is it you want, sir?" With that peculiar directness so characteristic of him, he simply said, "I wish to play to you. I am Beethoven."

The moon had risen, the street was silent, the tears glistened in the blind eyes of the elder girl—and then came the wonderful mysterious song of the music.

Beethoven turned and went as he had come, and long after, gave to the world what he saw and felt before these two lonely children.

Shew that there are two distances from the staff at which the cord can do this. Find the distances, correct to nearest inch, having given $\log 2 = 3010300 \log 3 = 4771213$ and $2\cdot3890756 = \log 245$ nearly.
 - 5. Expand $\cos \theta$ in a series of ascending powers of θ . And assuming

$$\sin \theta = \theta - \frac{\theta^3}{|3|} + \frac{\theta^5}{|5|} - \dots$$
, prove that
$$e^{i\theta} = \cos \theta + i \sin \theta.$$

6. Prove that, if $a^2 + b^2 = 1$,

 $(a+ib)^n = \cos n\theta + i \sin n\theta, \text{ where tan } \theta = \frac{b}{a}$ and n is a positive integer.

- 7. Find the equation of the straight line which passes through the point (4, 5), and is parallel to the line joining the points (2, -2) and (5, 2.) Find the perpendicular distance between these two parallel lines.
- 8. Find the radius and the coordinates of the centre, of the circle $3x^2 + 3y^2 + 7x 9y + 3 = 0$. And find the length of the tangent to the circle from the point (3, -2).
- 9. If V be the middle point of a chord QQ' of a parabola and P be the point where the diameter through V meets the curve, prove that $QV^2 = 4$ SP. PV.

If QD be the perpendicular from Q on the diameter PV, prove that $QD^2 = 4$ AS. PV.

10 Prove that two tangents drawn from any point to an ellipse, subtend equal angles at its focus.

If the tangent at any point P meet the tangents at the vertices of an ellipse, in T and T, prove that the circle on TT' as diameter must pass through its foci.

11. Define Asymptotes. Prove that the portion of a tangent to a hyperbola intercepted between its asymptotes, is bisected at its point of contact.

If the tangent at P on a hyperbola meet its asymptotes in L and L,' and the circle about the triangle LCL cut the major axis in G, prove that PG is normal to the hyperbola at P.

B.A. AND B.Sc. EXAMINATIONS .

ENGLISH.

General Section.

FIRST PAPER.

There is nothing more extraordinary than the effect produced by reiteration upon the public mind. Almost any nonsense makes an impression if only it is repeated often enough in print. The fortunes made by soaps, hairwashes, patent medicines, patent aids to cookery, etc., are valuable witnesses to this curious fact. No one would take any notice of the extravagant statements made about these commodities if they had only read them once. Yet they very well know that the multiplication of one lie into a million is a mechanical processa mere question of money and machinery. One of the saddest things about the whole matter is that the public is not exactly taken in. It can hardly be said to believe that the declarations appearing in advertisements are true; but it does think, especially if they are strong enough and cover a sufficient number of square yards of paper, that there is "something in them."

There is a form of self-advertisement which proves even more pointedly than commercial advertisement the wonderful potency of assertion. It is something far subtler and appeals to a smaller and more select policic. The deception goes further but it is necessary to obtain * the full effect, that a person who makes the assertion should himself believe in its truth. The power to deceive with which the self-deceived are often endowed is remarkable. How many people think and cirtually assert that they are clever, or artistic, or handsome, or in some special sense "men of the world"? If they will only have faith they can nearly always get a vast number of people to agree with them.

"But how," it may be asked, "does anyone come to believe in himself to such a degree"? Again we must look to the power of assertion. By countless assertions a stupid man can convince himself. That * is why unreceptive people become so pig-headed and prejudiced as they get older. They have had time to repeat their notions until they are almost ready to die for them; and it is impossible but * that they should affect the minds of others.

- (a) Summarise what is here said as to the power of assertion.
 - (b) Explain the italicised words and phrases.
- (c) Explain the meaning of the sentence beginning "Yet they very well know..."
- 2. We seldom now-a-days hear the word "faithfulness" used in the sense often assigned to it informer times when it served to denote "the duty of telling * unwelcome truths and giving unwelcome counsel." Very few people now pride themselves upon being "faithful" with their friends, i.e., never allowing affection or a proper regard for the liberty of the individual to stand between them and a true expression of unasked upinion. No one boasts that he or she has been "faithful." Such severity may be at times necessary, and often excusable, but it is no longer admired. A tendency to rigorous dealing, whether verbal or otherwise, has lost its place among the virtues and takes rank among minor defects of character. Of course we all tell unpleasant truths and give unwelcome advice at times, but not often of * set purpose. We do it, so to speak, by accident,-because we have lost our tempers, or are otherwise carried away by our feelings. Those who suffer from the faithful wounds of a friend or painfully reject his gratuitous guidance do not try, as their grandfathers tried-after the first moment of inevitable irritation was over-to feel gratitude to him on the ground of his faithfulness; at best now-a-days they do but * try to forgive him for his interference.

All of this course, is merely part of the modern softening of manners, the modern respect for the individual, and the modern worship of liberty. For the decay of "faithfulness" within the circle of intimacy comes of * the same advance in civilization which has killed verbal personal violence in the wider circle of cultivated society. Friends no longer dare to play with sharpedged personalties.

- (a) Explain the italicised words and phrases in the above passage.
- (b) What is meant by "unwelcome truths"? and how can the telling of them be "a duty?"
- (c) Explain and illustrate the meaning of the phrase "a proper regard for the liberty of the individual."
- (d) Explain and contrast "the circle of intimacy" with "the wider circle of cultivated society."
- (e) Describe briefly the change in manners which is discused in the above passage.
- 3. In both the above passages parse the words followed by an asterisk.

SECOND PAPER.

Essay.

'A man's career depends on three things—character, training and opportunity.'

Illustrate your remarks by reference to History; and if you can to some instance known to you from your own experience.

Special Section.

FIRST PAPER.

1. "The rights of men were in the Declaration of the National Assembly in France declared to be Liberty, Property, Security and resistance to oppression."

Explain briefly the meaning of these four terms as descriptive of men's rights.

2. (a) Explain the following passage:-

The statues of Equity and Mercy might be veiled for a moment. The tenderest minds confounded with the dreadful exigence in which morality submits to the suspension of its own rules in favour of its own principles, might turn aside, whilst fraud and violence were accomplishing the destruction of a pretended nobility which disgraced whilst it persecuted human nature. The persons most abhorrent from blood and treason and arbitrary confiscation might remain silent spectators of this civil war between the vices.

- (b) What faults and what merits are attributed by Burke to the French aristocarcy?
- 3. Explain and refer to the context any three of the following passages:—
- (c) Though a king may abdicate for his own person, he cannot abdicate for the monarchy. By as strong, or by a stronger reason, the House of Commons cannot renounce its share of authority. The engagement and pact of Society, which generally goes by the name of the constitution, forbids such invasion and such surrender.
- (b) A man is fallen indeed, when he is thus flattered. The anodyne draught of oblivion, thus drugged, is well calculated to preserve a galling wakefulness, and to feed the living ulcer of a corroding memory. Thus to administer the opiate potion of amnesty, powdered with all the ingredients of scorn and contempt, is to hold to his lips, instead of the balm of hurt minds, 'the cup of human misery full to the brim, and to force him to drink it to the dregs.
- (c) But there are some people of that low and degenerate fashion of mind, that they look up with a sort of complacent awe and admiration to kings, who know to keep firm in their seat, to hold a strict hand over their subjects, to assert their prerogative, and by the awakened vigilance of a severe despotism, to guard against the very first approaches of freedom. Against such as these they never elevate their voice. Deserters from principle, listed with fortune, they never see any good in suffering virtue, nor any crime in prosperous usurpation.

- (d) We do not draw the moral lessons we might from history. On the contrary, without care it may be used to vitiate our minds and to destroy our happiness. In History a great volume is unrolled for our instruction, drawing the materials of future wisdom from the past errors and infirmities of mankind. It may, in the perversion, serve for a magazine, furnishing offensive and defensive weapons for parties in church and state, and supply the means of keeping alive, or reviving discussions and animosities, and adding fuel to civil fury.
- 4. (a) What, in the opinion of Newman, were the aims of the Baconian philosophy, and how far have they been realised?

Or

- (b) Enunciate the 'Theory of Utility in Education' as set forth by Locke. Explain (i) the narrower and (ii) the broader sense in which 'liberal' education may be described as useful.
- 5. Explain and refer to the context any four of the following passages:—
- (a) Arcesilas, I suppose, would not have handled logic as Aristotle, nor Aristotle have criticized poets as Plato; yet reasoning and poetry are subject to scientific rules.
- (b) The philosopher in Rasselas taught a superhuman doctrine, and then succumbed without an effort to a trial of human affection.
- (c) Knowledge, indeed, and science express purely intellectual ideas, but still not a state or quality of the intellect.
- (d) A university is, according to the usual designation, an Alma Mater knowing her children one by one not a foundry or a mint or a treadmill.
- (e) In the same manner the Parr or the Bentley of the day would be scandalised, in a university, to be put on a level with the discoverer of a neutral salt.

- (f) Although the art itself is advanced by the concentration of mind in its service, the individual who is confined to it goes back.
- 6. How was the character of Silas Marner affected by the unjust condemnation of, and consequent separation from, his earliest friends?
- 7. 'There was one main thread of planful experience in Nancy's married life, and on it hung certain deeply-felt scenes which were the oftenest revived in retrospect.'

What were the 'painful experiences' here referred to? Describe the train of thought followed by Nancy in these reflections.

- 8. Explain carefully :-
- (a) The rude mind with difficulty associates the ideas of power and benignity.

Or

Breed is stronger than pasture.

(b) We may strive and scrat and fend, but it's little we can do arter all—the big things come and go wi'no striving o' our'n—they do, that they do.

Or

There's good i' this world—I've a feeling o' that now, and it makes a man feel as there's a good more nor he can see, i' spite of the trouble and the wickedness.

(c) This excessive rumination and self-questioning is perhaps a morbid habit inevitable to a mind of much moral sensibility when shut out from its due share of outward activity and of practical claims on its affections.

0r

The Squire's life was quite as idle as his sons, but it was a fiction kept up by himself and his contemporaries in Raveloe that youth was exclusively the period of folly, and that their aged wisdom was constantly in a state of endurance mitigated by sarcasm.

SECOND PAPER.

- 1. Discuss briefly the various kinds of evidence by which the chronology of Shakespeare's dramas may be determined, and apply these tests to the prescribed plays (Hamlet, Coriolanus, The Merchant of Venice).
- 2. Explain and annotate any two passages in each of the foxowing groups (A, B, C.)—
- A. (a) Mother, for love of grace,

 Lay not that flattering unction to your soul,

 That not your trespass but my madness speaks;

 It will but skin and film the ulcerous place,

 Whilst rank corruption, mining all within,

 Infects unseen. Confess yourself to heaven;

 Repent what's past, avoid what is to come;

 And do not spread the compost on the weeds,

 To make them ranker.
 - (b) How all occasions do inform against me, And spur my dull revenge! What is a man, If his chief good and market of his time Be but to sleep and feed? A beast, no more. Sure, He that made us with such large discourse, Looking before and after, gave us not That capability and godlike reason To fust in us unus'd
 - (c) Being thus be-netted round with villanies—
 Ere I could make a prologue to my brains,
 They had begun the play—I sat me down,
 Devis'd a new commission, wrote it fair;
 I once did hold it, as our statists do,
 A baseness to write fair, and labour'd much
 How to forget that learning, but sir, now
 It did me yeoman's service. Wilt thou know
 The effect of what I wrote?

B. (a) Marcius Within these three hours, Tullus,
Alone I fought in your Corioli walls,
And made what work I pleas'd; 'tis not my blood
Wherein thou seest me mask'd; for thy revenge
Wrench up thy power to the highest.
Aufidius Wert thou the Hector
That was the whip of your bragg'd progeny,
Thou shouldst not scape here.—

[They fight, and certain Volsces come in the aid of Aufidius Marcust fights till they be driven in breathless.

Officious, and not valiant, you have sham'd me In your condemned seconds.

- (b) Menenius. I could myself
 Take up a brace of them; yea, the two tribunes.
 Cominius. But now 'tis odds beyond arithmetic;
 And manhood is called foolery, when it stands
 Against a falling fabric.—Will you hence,
 Before the tag return? whose rage doth rend
 Like interrupted waters, and o'erbear
 What they are used to bear.
- (c) Siciniuis. He loved his mother dearly.

Menenius. So did he me; and he no more remembers his mother now than an eight-year-old horse. The tartness of his face sours ripe grapes; when he walks, he moves like an engine, and the ground shrinks before his treading; he is able to pierce a corslet with his eye, talks like a knell, and his hum is a battery. He sits in his state, as a thing made for Alexander. What he bids be done is finished with his bidding. He wants nothing of a god but eternity and a heaven to throne in.

C. (a) If I live to be as old as Sibylla I will die as chaste as Diana, unless I be obtained by the manner of my father's will: I am glad this parcel of wooers are so reasonable; for there is not one among them but I dote on his very absence, and I wish them a fair departure.

- When I did first impart my love to you,
 I freely told you, all the wealth I had
 Ran in my veins,—I was a gentleman;
 And then I told you true: and yet, dear lady,
 Rating myself at nothing, you shall see
 How much I was a braggart. When I told you
 My state was nothing, I should then have told you
 That I was worse than nothing; for, indeed,
 I have engaged myself to a dear friend,
 Engaged my friend to his mere enemy
 To feed my means.
- (c) Thou almost mak'st me waver in my faith,
 To hold opinion with Pythagoras,
 That souls of animals infuse themselves
 Into the trunks of men: thy currish spirit
 Govern'd a wolf, who, hang'd for human slaughter,
 Even from the gallows did his fell soul fleet,
 And, whilst thou lay'st in thy unhallow'd dam,
 Infused itself in thee; for thy desires
 Are wolfish, bloody, sterv'd and ravenous.
- 3. Give a short account of the Play-scene in Hamlet. What was the object with which Hamlet caused the play to be acted? What results actually followed from the representation?
- 4. Explain how Guinevere spoiled the purpose of the King's life and how the fall of the Round Table was the consequence of her sin.
- 5. (a) Give a short account of the period of Milton's life to which Comus belongs, and mention any other works of the same period.
 - (b) Give a short historical account of The English Masque.

- 6. Explain and annotate any two passages in each of the following groups (A, B.)—
 - A. (a) Then Arthur turn'd to Kay the seneschal,

 'Take thou my churl, and tend him curiously
 Like a king's heir, till all his hurts be whole.

 The heathen—but that ever-climbing wave,
 Hurl'd back again so often in empty foam,
 Hath lain for years at rest—and renegades,
 Thieves, bandits, leavings of confusion, whom
 The wholesome realm is purged of otherwhere,
 Friends, thro' your manhood and your fealty,—now
 Make their last head like Satan in the North.
 - (b) And Dagonet answer'd, 'ay, and when the land Was freed, and the Queen false, ye set yourself To babble about him, all to show your wit— And whether he were king by courtesy, Or king by right—and so went harping down The black king's highway, got so far, and grew So witty that ye play'd at ducks and drakes With Arthur's vows on the great lake of fire.
 - (c) But when Sir Lancelot told
 This matter to the Queen, at first she laugh'd
 Lightly, to think of Modred's dusty fall,
 Then shudder'd, as the village wife who cries
 'I shudder, someone steps across my grave';
 Then laughed again, but faintlier, for indeed
 She half-foresaw that he, the subtle beast,
 Would track her guilt until he found, and hers
 Would be for evermore a name of scorn.
 - (d) 'The simple, fearful child
 Meant nothing, but my own too-fearful guilt,
 Simpler than any child, betrays itself.
 But help me, heaven, for surely I repent,
 For what is true repentance but in thought—

Not even in inmost thought to think again The sins that made the past so pleasant to us: And I have sworn never to see him more, To see him more.'

And ev'n in saying this, Her memory from old habit of the mind Went slipping back upon the golden days In which she saw him first—

- B. (a) Shepherd, I take thy word,
 And trust thy honest-offered courtesy,
 Which oft is sooner found in lowly sheds,
 With smoky rafters, than in tapestry halls
 And courts of princes, where it first was named,
 And yet is more pretended. In a place
 Less warranted than this, or less secure,
 I cannot be, that I should fear to change it.
 Eye me, blest Providence, and square my trial
 To my proportioned strength!
 - Of malice or of sorcery, or that power
 Which erring men call Chance, this I hold firm:
 Virtue may be assailed, but never hurt,
 Surprised by unjust force, but not enthralled;
 Yea, even that which mischief meant most harm
 Shall in the happy trial prove a glory,
 But evil on itself shall back recoil,
 And mix no more with goodness, when at last,
 Gathered like scum, and settled to itself,
 It shall be in eternal restless change
 Self-fed and self-consumed.
 - (c) O foolishness of men! that lend their ears To those budge doctors of the Stoic fur, And fetch their precepts from the Cynic tub, Praising the lean and sallow Abstinence!

Wherefore did Nature pour her bounties forth With such a full and unwithdrawing hand, Covering the earth with odours, fruits, and flocks, Thronging the sea with spawn innumerable. But all to please and sate the curious taste?

Sultan Mahmud, the celebrated king of Ghazni, was the eldest son of Sultan Nasir-uddin Subaktagin. His father at his death, 997 A.D., 387 A.H., unmindful of the superior right of Mahmud, who was then employed in the government of Khurasan, bequeathed his kingdom to Ismail, a younger son. Ismail attempted to confirm himself in the power to which he was raised, but on the approach of Mahmud after a vain attempt at resistance, he was compelled to throw himself upon the clemency of his offended brother. Mahmud reigned more than 33 lunar years, during which time he made twelve expeditions into India; took Lahore, Delhi, Kannauj and other parts of Hindustan; many hundred temples of the Hindus he levelled with the ground; many thousand idols he demolished, and broke to pieces the famous idol of Somnath, the fragments of which he distributed to Ghazni, Mecca and Medina. He was born on the 15th December, 967 A.D., 9th Muharram, 357 A.H., and died on Thursday, the 23rd of Rabi II, 421 A.H., which year and date is inscribed on his tomb at Ghazni, corresponding with the 30th April, 1030 A.D.

History has preserved, for the admiration of the posterity examples of patience under suffering exhibited by the followers of other creeds. But the practice of the virtues of patient forgiveness is easier in adversity, when we have no power to punish the evil-doer, than in prosperity. It is related of Husain, the grandson of the Prophet, that a slave, having once thrown the contents of a scalding dish over him as he sat at dinner, fell on his knees and repeated the verse of the Koran, "(Paradise is) for those who bridle their anger." "I am not angry," answered Husain. The slave proceeded, "and for those who forgive men," "I forgive you," said Husain.

This was the Saiyid Burhan-ud-Din, who became Jalal's spiritual teacher for some time. The dates given do not agree in the various branches of Aflaki's compilation; for he her gives a period of nine years' spiritual study at Qoniya under Burhan. After Burhan's instructions and departure from Quoniya to Qaisarya, where he died, and after Jalal's studies at Aleppo and Damascus, with his subsequent return to Qoniya and appointment to the four Colleges, another great saint came to visit Jalal at this latter city. This was Shamsud-Din of Tabraz, for whom Jalal conceived a very great friendship. He is mentioned in the Masnawi several times in very high terms. He appears to have been exceedingly aggressive and domineering in his manner. This roused a fierce animosity against him, which at length broke out in a tumult. Jalal's eldest son Ala'u-d-Din, was killed or mortally hurt in this disturbance. The local police seized Shamsud-Din in consequence. and he was never again seen alive by his friends. Jalal went himself to Damascus, in hopes that he might have been sent away, or have got away privately. But the effort was fruitless. Later traditions cause his corpse to have been recovered and buried at Qoniya, differing, however, as to the place of interment.

In this part of India the most splendid architectural monuments are those left by the Mohammedan sovereigns. Simple and admirable in general design, they are still more remarkable for the faultless taste of their decoration. Nothing has ever surpassed the surface ornamentation of stone carving with which some the buildings of the Afghan dynasties are covered, on the later and still more beautiful inlaying with precious stones adopted by the Moghuls. There seems no doubt that the art of stone carving decoration was introduced into India by Italians, but the masters were far surpassed by their pnpils. The process was applied in a new and independent style, and there is nothing in Italy in this sort of decoration that can be compared, in beauty of design, or colour, or effect, with the work found in the palaces and tombs of India. The Orientai artists of the Mohammadan sovereigns had at their disposal unbounded wealth, unlimited labour and the most lavish profusion of precious materials, but nothing is more remarkable in their finest works than the sobriety and refinement of their taste.

When the human spirit after years of imprisonment in the cage of the body is at length set free and wings its flight to the source whence it came, is not this an occasion for rejoicings. So, too, the death of a saint is an exactly parallel case.

The father of Constantia was so incensed at the father of Theodosius that he contracted an aversion towards his son, insomuch that he forbade him his house and charged his daughter never to see him more. In the meantime, to break off all communication between the two lovers, who he knew entertained secret hopes of some favourable opportunity that should bring them together, he found out a young gentleman of a good fortune and an agreeable person whom he pitched upon as a husband for his daughter. He soon concerted this affair so well that he told Constantia it was his design to marry her to such a gentleman, and that her wedding should be celebrated on such a day. Constantia who was overawed with the authority of her father, and unable to object anything against so advantageous a marriage, received the proposal in profound silence.

 - (a) Therefore he was a pricasour aright; Grehoundes he hadde, as swifte as fowel in flight; Of priking and of hunting for the hare Was al his lust, for no cost wolde he spare. I seigh his sleves purfiled at the hond With grys, and that the fyneste of a lond; And for to festne his hood under his chin, He hadde of gold y-wrought a curious pin: A love-knot in the gretter ende ther was. His heed was balled, that shoon as any glas, And eek his face, as he hadde been anoint. He was a lord ful fat and in good point; His eyen stepe, and rollinge in his heed, That stemed as a forneys of a leed ; His botes souple, his hors in greet estat. Now certenly he was a fair prelat; He was not pale as a for-pyned goost. A fat swan loved he best of any roost. His palfrey was as broun as is a berye.
 - (b) Benign he was, and wonder diligent,
 And in adversitee ful pacient;
 And swich he was y-preved ofte sythes,
 Ful loth were him to cursen for his tythes,

But rather wolde he yeven, out of doute,
Unto his povre parisshens aboute
Of his offring, and eek of his substance.
He coude in litel thing han suffisaunce,
Wyd was his parisshe, and houses fer a sonder
But he ne lafte nat, for reyn ne thonder,
In siknes nor in meschief to visyte
The ferreste in his parisshe, moche and lyte,
Upon his feet, and in his hand a staf.
This noble ensample to his sheep he yaf,
That first he wroghte, and afterward he taughte.

- (c) His heer was by his eres round y-shorn. His tip was dokked lyk a preest biforn. Ful longe were his legges, and ful lene, Y-lyk a staf, there was no calf y-sene. Wel coude he kepe a gerner and a binne; Ther was noon auditour coude on him winne. Wel wiste he, by the droghte, and by the reyn, The yeldyng of his seed, and of his greyn. His lordes sheep, his neet, his dayerye, His swyn, his hors, his stoor, and his pultrye, Was hoolly in this reves governing, And by his covenaunt yaf the rekening. Sin that his lord was twenty yeer of age; Ther coude no man bringe him in arrerage. Ther has bailiff, ne herde, ne other hyne, That he ne knew his sleighte and his covyne; They were adrad of him as of the deeth.

 - (a) Then to her yron wagon she betakes,

 And with her beares the fowle welfavoured witch:
 Through mirkesome aire her ready way she makes.
 Her twyfold teme, of which two blacke as pitch,
 And two were browne, yet each to each unlich,
 Did softly swim away, ne ever stamp
 Unlesse she chaunst their stubborn mouths to twitch;
 Then foming tarre, their bridles they would champ
 And trampling the fine element would fiercely ramp.
 - (b) With that they heard a roaring hideous sound, That all the ayre with terror filled wide, And seemed uneath to shake the stedfast ground. Eftsoones that dreadful Dragon they espyde, Where stretcht he lay upon the sunny side Of a great hill, himself like a great hill, But all so soon as he from far descryde Those glistering armes that heven with light did fill, He roused himself full blyth and hastened them untill.
 - 5. Give in your own words the meaning of five of the following passages, making clear all allusions:—

- 7. In his letter introducing the Essay on Man to Lord Bolingbroke, Pope says, "I chose verse, and even rhyme, for two reasons. The one will be obvious; that principles, maxims, or precepts so written, both strike the reader more strongly at first, and are more easily retained by him afterwards. The other may seem odd, but it is true: I found I could express them more shortly this way than in prose itself; and nothing is more certain, than that much of the force as well as grace of arguments or instructions, depends on their conciseness."

Justify these observations and illustrate your answer by giving quotations from the poem.

- 8. Expand so as to express fully the meaning of two of the following:—
 - (a) —Wings at my shoulders seem to play; But, rooted here, I stand and gaze On those bright steps that heavenward raise

Their practicable way.

Come forth, ye drooping old men, look abroad,

And see to what fair countries ye are bound!

- (b) Within the soul a faculty abides, That with interpositions, which would hide And darken, so can deal that they become Contingencies of pomp; and serve to exalt Her native brightness.
- (c) Even such a shell the universe itself
 Is to the ear of Faith; and there are times,
 I doubt not, when to you it doth impart
 Authentic tidings of invisible things;
 Of ebb and flow, and ever-during power;
 And central peace, subsisting at the heart
 Of endless agitation.
- (d) Dear child! dear girl! that walkest with me here, If thou appear untouched by solemn thought. Thy nature is not therefore less divine; Thou liest in Abraham's bosom all the year; And worship'st at the temple's inner shrine, God being with thee when we know it not.

SECOND PAPER.

- 1. Answer any three of the following:-
- (α) Write an imaginary Prospectus for Addison's 'Spectator, setting forth its object, and the means to be employed for its attainment.
- (b) "Lamb remains in the common judgment the most fascinating and lovable figure in English literature." Justify or criticise this assertion.
- (c) "Bacon's style has been described as enigmatical folded writing." Justify this criticism, quoting passages from the essays in illustration of your answer.

- (d) Enumerate the principal regulations that prevailed in Utopia with regard to labour. By what contrivances was the shortening of the hours of labour rendered possible, and how were the hours of leisure to be employed?
 - 2. Explain any four of the following:-
- (a) The hours of a wise man are lengthened by his ideas as those of a fool are by his passions.
- (b) I found my modesty greatly relieved by the communicative temper of this nation.
- (c) Our superiors are guided by intuition and our inferiors by instinct.
- (d) What I spent, I lost; what I possessed is left to others; what I gave away remains with me.
- (e) True wit consists in the resemblance of ideas, and false wit in the resemblance of words.
- (f) Our disputants put me in mind of the skuttle fish that, when he is unable to extricate himself, blackens all the water about him, till he becomes invisible.
 - 3. Translate into simple modern English :-
- (a) No youth can be comely but by pardon, and considering the youth as to make up the comeliness. Beauty is as Summer-Fruits, which are easy to corrupt and cannot last. And for the most part, it makes a dissolute youth and an age a little out of countenance: But yet certainly again, if it light well, it maketh virtues shine and vices blush.
- (d) To mocke a man for his deformite, or for that the lacketh any part of lymme of his bodye, is counted greate dishonestye and reproche, not to him that is mocked but to him that mocketh. Which unwysely doth imbrayde anye man of that as a vice, that was not in his powre to eschewe. Also as they counte and reken verye litell writte to be in him, that regardeth not naturall beutic and comlinesse, so to helpe the same with payntinges, is taken for a vaine and a wanton pride, not withoute greate infamie.

- 4. Explain any three of the following passages :-
- (a) For in Bodies, Union strengthneth and cherisheth any Naturall Action; and, on the other side, weakneth and dulleth any violent impression: And even so is it of minds.
- (b) The Poller which justifies the Common Resemblance of the Courts of Justice to the Bush, whereunto while the sheepe flies for defence in Wether, he is sure to loose part of his Fleece.
- (c) If a man would crosse a Business that he doubts some other would handsomely and effectually move, let him pretend to wish it well, and move it himselfe in such sort as may foil it.
- (d) Public Envy is as an Ostracisme, that eclipseth men when they grow too great. And therefore it is a Bridle also to Great Ones, to keep them within Bounds.
 - 5. Explain any three of the following passages :-
- (a) The appeals of the beggars were to our common nature; less revolting to an ingenuous mind than to be a suppliant to the particular humours or caprice of any fellow-creature, or set of fellow-creatures, parochial or societarian. Theirs were the only rates uninvidious in the levy, ungrudged in the assessment.
- (b) I reverence these young Africans of our own growth—these almost clergy imps, who sport their cloth without assumption; and from their little pulpits (the tops of chimneys), in the nipping air of a December morning, preach a lesson of patience to mankind.
- (c) The taste of the true Caledonian never fluctuates His morality never abates. He cannot compromise, or understand middle actions. There can be but a right and a wrong. His conversation is as a book. His affirmations have the sanctity of an oath. You must speak upon the square with him He stops a metaphor like a suspected person in an enemy's country.

(d) To one like Elia, whose treasures are rather cased in leather covers than closed in iron coffers there is a class of alienators more formidable than that which I have touched upon; I mean your borrowers of books—those mutilators, of collections, spoilers of the symmetry of shelves, and creators of odd volumes.

THIRD Paper.

- 1. Describe the method by which the date of a Shakespearian play is fixed. Apply your rule to fix the date of Hamlet or As you like It.
- 2. Express in your own words the meaning of four of the following passages, connecting each with its context. Add any notes you think necessary.
 - (a) But good my brother,
 Do not, as some ungracious pastors do,
 Show me the steep and thorny way to heaven,
 Whilst, like a puff'd and reckless libertine,
 Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads
 And recks not his own rede.
 - (b) Your bait of falsehood takes the carp of truth And thus do we of wisdom and of reach, With windlasses and with assays of bias, By indirections find directions out.
 - Sense sure you have,
 Else could you not have motion; but sure that sense
 Is apoplex'd; for madness would not err,
 Nor sense to ecstasy was never so thralled
 But it reserved some quantity of choice,
 To serve in such a difference. What devil was't
 That thus hath cozen'd you at hoodman-blind?

- (d) I struck
 The lean and wrinkled Cassius; and 'twas I
 That the mad Brutus ended; he alone
 Dealt in lieutenantry, and no practice had
 In the brave squares of war.
- (e) The itch of his affection should not then Have nick'd his captainship, at such a point, When half to half the world oppos'd, he being The mered question.
- (f) Woulds't thou be window'd in great Rome and see
 Thy master thus, with pleach'd arms, bending down
 His corrigible neck, his face subdued
 To penetrative shame, whilst the wheel'd seat
 Of fortunate Cæsar, drawn before him, branded
 His baseness that ensued?
- (g) He that the fool doth very wisely hit
 Doth very foolishly, although he smart,
 But to seem senseless of the bob; if not,
 The wise man's folly is anatomized,
 Even by the squandering glances of the fool.
- (h) A worthy fool! one that hath been a courtier, And says, if ladies be but young and fair, They have the gift to know it: and in his brain, Which is as dry as the remainder biscuit After a voyage, he hath strange places cramm'd With observations, the which he vents In mangled forms. O that I were a fool! I am ambitions for a motely coat.
- 3. Answer any two of the following:-
- (a) "Haste me to know't that I with wings as swift As meditation are the thoughts of love, May sweep to my revenge."

Do you consider this speech consistent with the general tenour of Hamlet's conduct and character? Illustrate your answer by quotations from the play. (b) "The tripple pillar of the world transform'd Into a strumpet's fool."

A critic has remarked: "In these lines the play of Anthony and Cleopatra is epitomized." How far do you consider the remark to be correct?

(c) "Sweet are the uses of adversity."

To what extent do the adventures of Rosalind justify this dictum?

- 4. Express, in your own words, the meaning of two of the following passages, adding such notes as you think necessary.
 - (a) So virtue given for lost, Depressed and overthrown, as seemed, Like that self-begotton bird, In the Arabian woods embost, That no second knows nor third, And lay erewhile a holocaust, From out her ashy womb now teemed, Revives, reflourishes, then vigorous most, When most unactive deemed; And, though her body die, her fame survives, A secular bird, ages of lives.
 - (b) We that are of purer fire,
 Imitate the starry quire,
 Who, in their nightly watchful spheres,
 Lead in swift round the months and years.
 The sounds and seas, with all their finny drove,
 Now to the moon in wavering morrice move;
 And on the tawny sands and shelves
 Trip the pert faeries and the dapper elves.
 By dimpled brook and fountain-brim,
 The wood-nymphs, decked with daisies trim,
 Their merry wakes and pastimes keep:
 What hath night to do with sleep?

- (c) O foolishness of men! that lend their ears To those budge doctors of the Stoic fur, And fetch their precepts from the Cynic tub, Praising the lean and sallow Abstinence! Wherefore did nature pour her bounties forth With such a full and unwithdrawing hand. Covering the earth with odours, fruit, and flocks, Thronging the sea with spawn innumerable But all to please and sate the curious taste?
- Answer either of the following :-

 - (b) Chæronea, fatal to liberty Killed with report that old man eloquent.
 - (c) And the false north displays Her broken league to imp their serpent wings.
 - (d) Peace hath her victories. No less renowned than war.
- (e) Their martyred blood and ashes sow O'er all the Italian fields, where still doth sway The triple Tyrant.
- (f) They also serve who only stand and wait.

or,

- (b) Give a short critical account of the place occupied by the Songs in The Princess, and their hearing on the teaching of the poem.
- 5. Annotate and explain any two passages in each of the following groups:—(A, B. C.)

Α.

(a) Let them not fear: some said their heads were less;
 Some men's were small; not they the least of men;
 For often fineness compensated size:
 Besides the brain was like the hand and grew

With using; thence the man's if more was more; He took advantage of his strength to be First in the field: some ages had been lost; But woman ripen'd earlier, and her life Was longer; and albeit their glorious names Were fewer, scatter'd stars, yet since in truth The highest is the measure of the man, And not the Kaffir, Hottentot, Malay, Nor those horn-handed breakers of the glebe, But Homer, Plato, Verulam, even so With Woman: and in arts of Government Elizabeth and others; arts of war The peasant Joan and others; arts of grace Sappho and others vied with any man:

- (8) Nor is it Wiser to weep a true occasion lost, But trime our sails, and let old bygones be, While down the streams that float us each and all To the issue, goes, like glittering bergs of ice, Throne after throne, and molten on the waste Becomes a cloud: for all things serve their time Towards that great year of equal mights and rights, Nor would I fight with iron laws, in the end Found golden: let the past be past; let be Their cancelle'd Bables: tho' the rough kex break Their starr'd mosaic, and the beared-blown goat Hang on the shaft, and the wild figtree split Their monstrous idols, care not while we hear A trumpet in the distance pealing news Of better, and Hope, a poising eagle, burns Above unrisen morrow:
- (c) Last I woke sane, but well-nigh close to death
 For weakness: it was evening: silent light
 Slept on the painted walls, wherein were wrought
 Two grand designs; for on one side arose

The women up in wild revolt, and storm'd At the Oppian law. Titanic shapes, they cramm'd The forum, and half-crush'd among the rest A dwarf-like Cato cower'd. On the other side Hortensia spoke against the tax; behind, A train of dames: by axe and eagle sat, With all their foreheads drawn in Roman scowls, And half the wolf's-milk curdled in their veins, The fierce triumvirs; and before them paused Hortensia pleading: angry was her face.

В.

- (a) O me, what profits it to put
 An idle case? If Death were seen
 At first as Death, Love had not been,
 Or been in narrowest working shut,
 Mere fellowship of sluggish moods,
 Or in his coarsest Satyr—shape
 Had bruised the herb and crush'd the grape,
 And bask'd and batten'd in the woods.
- (c) Are God and Nature then at strife. That Nature lends such evil dreams? So careful of the type she seems, So careless of the single life; That I, considering every where Her secret meaning in her deeds, And finding that of fifty seeds She often brings but one to bear, I falter where I firmly trod, And falling with my weight of cares Upon the great world's altar-stairs That slope thro' darkness up to God, I stretch lame hands of faith, and grope, And gather dust and chaff, and call To what I feel is lord of all. And faintly trust the larger hope.

(c) Half-grown as yet, a child, and vain—
She cannot fight the fear of death.
What is she, cut from love and faith
But some wild Pallas from the brain
Of Demons? fiery hot to burst
All barriers in her onward race
For power. Let her know her place;
She is the second, not the first.

C.

- (a) But when the next day brake from underground—
 O brother, had you known our Camelot,
 Built by old kings, age after age, so old
 The king himself had fears that it would fall,
 So strange, and rich, and dim; for where the roofs
 Totter'd toward each other in the sky,
 Met foreheads all along the street of those
 Who watch'd us pass; and lower, and where the long
 Rich galleries, lady-laden, weigh'd the necks
 Of dragons clining to the crazy walls,
 Thicker than drops from thunder, showers of flowers
 Fell as we past; and men and boys astride
 On wyvern, lion, dragon, griffin, swan,
 At all the corners, named us each by name,
 Calling "God speed"!
- (b) This Gareth hearing from a squire of Lot
 With whom he used to play at tourney once,
 When both were children, and in lonely haunts
 Would scratch a ragged oval on the sand,
 And each at other dash from either end—
 Shame never made girl sadder than Gareth joy—
 He laugh'd; he sprang. 'Out of the smoke, at once
 I leap from Satan's foot to Peter's knee—

- 6. Explain the following verses, and name and discribe of characterise the poems from which they are quoted :-
 - (a) Who is he that cometh, like an honour'd guest, With banner and with music, with soldier and with priest. With a nation weeping, and breaking on my rest?

Mighty Seaman, this is he

Was great by land as thou by sea.

- (b) Not clinging to some ancient saw; Not master'd by some modern term: Not swift nor slow to change, but firm: And in its season bring the law.
- (c) I am a part of all that I have met: Yet all experience is an arch where thro' Gleams that untravell'd worl'd whose margin fades For ever and for ever when I move.

- (h) The two perceptions 'Righteousness tendeth to life,' and 'the ungodly prosper in the world' are left confronting one another like Kantian antinomies.
- (c) What the science of Bible criticism, like are other science, needs is a very wide experience from comparative observation in many directions, and a very slowly acquired habit of mind.

- 7. 'You cannot lead your children faithfully to those narrow axe-hewn church altars of yours, while the dark azure altars in heaven—the mountains that sustain your island throne,—mountains on which a Pagan would have seen the powers of heaven rest in every wreathed cloud—remain for you without inscription; altars built, not to, but by an Unknown God.'

Explain, and indicate that tendency of thought in Ruskin which finds expression in the above passage.

SIXTH PAPER (a).

Nineteenth Century Poetry.

N.B.—Any five, not more, of the following questions to be answered:
both parts of each question must be attempted.

1. (a) Explain the following lines, with reference to the context:-

Books! 'tis a dull and endless strife: Come, hear the woodland linnet, How sweet his music! on my life, There's more of wisdom in it.

And hark! how blithe the throstle sings! He, too, is no mean preacher: Come forth into the light of things, Let Nature be your teacher.

She has a world of ready wealth,
Our minds and hearts to bless—
Spontaneous wisdom breathed by health,
Truth breathed by cheerfulness,

One impulse from a vernal wood May teach you more of man, Of moral evil and of good, Than all the sages can.

- (b) How far is the poem in which this passage occurs representative of Wordsworth's attitude towards nature? Illustrate your remarks by further references to individual poems, with any appropriate quotations that occur to you.
 - (a) Explain, with reference to the context:—
 Earth fills her lap with pleasures of her own;
 Yearnings she hath in her own natural kind,
 And even with something of a Mother's mind,
 And no unworthy aim,
 The homely Nurse doth all she can

To make her Foster-child, her Inmate Man, Forget the glories he hath known, And that imperial palace whence he came.

- (b) Follow the successive steps of thoughts in the several sections of Wordsworth's Intimations of Immortality, with such comment as you may care to make.
 - 3. (a) Explain, with reference to the context:—

My genial spirits fail; And what can these avail.

To lift the smothering weight from off my breast :

It were a vain endeavour

Though I should gaze for ever

On that green light that lingers in the west: I may not hope from outward forms to win

The passion and the life, whose fountains are within.

- (b) Explain and criticise the theories set forth in Coleridge's Ode on Dejection.
 - 4. (a) Explain, with reference to the context:-

I am the daughter of earth and water, And the nursling of the sky:

I pass through the pores of the ocean and shores
I change, but I cannot die,

For after the rain, when with never a stain The pavilion of heaven is bare,

And the winds and sunbeams with their convex gleams, Build up the blue dome of air,

I silently laugh at my own cenotaph,—
And out of the caverns of rain,

Like a child from the womb, like a ghost from the tomb I arise and unbuild it again.

(b) Remark on Shelley's treatment of Nature in his poems, referring to particular poems and giving quotations wherever you can.

- 5. (a) Explain, with reference to the context:—

 He is made one with Nature. There is heard
 His voice in all her music, from the moan
 Of thunder to the songs of night's sweet bird.
 He is a presence to be felt and known
 In darkness and in light, from herb and stone,—
 Spreading itself where'er that Power may move
 Which has withdrawn his being to its own,
 Which wields the world with never-wearied love,
 Sustains it from beneath, and kindles it above.
- (b) Explain and comment on the philosophical substratum of Shelly's Adonais.
 - 6. (a) Explain, with reference to the context:—
 Thou wast not born for death, immortal Bird!
 No hungry generations tread thee down;
 The voice I hear this passing night was heard
 In ancient days by emperor and clown:
 Perhaps the self-same song that found a path
 Through the sad heart of Ruth, when, sick for home,
 She stood in tears amid the alien corn;
 The same that oft-times hath
 Charmed magic casements, opening on the foam
 Of perilous seas, in faery lands forlorn.
- (b) Wherein, should you say, lie the special merits of Keat's poetry? Illustrate your answer by references and quotations where you can do.
 - 7. (a) Explain, with reference to the context:-

Not on the vulgar mass
Called 'work,' must sentence pass,
Things done, that took the eye and had the price;
O'er which, from level stand,
The low world laid its hand,
Found straightway to its mind, could value in a trice:

But all, the world's coarse thumb And finger failed to plumb,

So passed in making up the main account:

All instincts immature,

All purposes unsure,

That weighed not as his work, yet swelled the man's amount:

Thoughts hardly to be packed

Into a narrow act,

Fancies that broke through language and escaped:

All I could never be,

All, men ignored in me,

This, I was worth to God, whose wheel the pitcher shaped.

- (b) Explain in detail how far the poem Rabbi been Ezra seems to you characteristic of Browning's work.
 - (a) Explain, with reforence to the context:—
 Just for a handful of silver he left us.
 Just for a ribanp to stick in his coat—

Found the one gift of which fortune bereft us,

Lost all the others she lets us devote;

They, with the gold to give, doled him cut silver,

So much was theirs who so little allowed:

How all our copper had gone for his service !

Rags—were they purple, his heart had been proud!

We that had loved him so, followed him, honoured him,

Lived in his mild and magnificent eye,

Learned his great language, caught his clear accents,

Made him our pattern to live and to die!

Shakespeare was of us, Milton was for us,

Burns, Shelley, were with us,—they watch from their graves!

He alone breaks from the van and the freemen,

-He alone sinks to the rear and the slaves!

(b) What has been suggested as regards the origin of the poem form which the lines above are taken? Examine in detail the statements of the last four lines.

- Others abide our question. Thou art free.

 We ask and ask—Thou smilest and art still.

 Out-topping knowledge. For the loftiest hill,

 Who to the stars uncrowns his majesty,

 Planting his steadfast footsteps in the sea,

 Making the heaven of haavens his dwelling-place,

 Spares but the cloudy border of his base

 To the foil'd searching of mortality;

 And thou, who didst the stars and sunbeams know,

 Self-school'd, self-scann'd, self-honour'd, self-secure,

 Did'st tread on earth unguess'd at,—Better so!

 All pains the immortal spirit must endure,

 All weakness which impairs, all griefs which bow,

 Find their sole speech in that victorious brow.
- (b) Scan the lines above; and carefully examine the justice of the comparison made in them.

Or, (b).

The Nizam holds the first place among the Native princes of India. The founder of the ruling family was one of Aurangzeb's viceroys; in 1724 he was virtually independent. Nearly the whole population is Hindu, but Hindus have no share in the administration; everything is in the hands of Mohammedan foreigners. The army chiefly consists of foreign mercenaries. There is no part of India in which the people have less sympathy with their rulers, men of other countries and of another faith. Frequent interference by the British Government has been necessary; the misfortune is that it has not been more complete and efficacious. Excepting sometimes for a short period, no Government in India has been more shamelessly corrupt than that of the Nizam. The Hyderabad State is the chief surviving relic of Mohammedan supremacy in India. With the not very important exceptions of Bhopal and Bahawalpur, the other States' under Mohammedan rulers, about twenty in number, are politically insignificant. The population of the so-called Mohammedan States is altogether about 14,000,000, but of this number at least 12,000,000 are Hindus. Even in Hyderabad, where the Mohammedans have been in power for centuries, there are less than 1,000,000 of them to 9,000,000 Hindus.

In Persia, Tartary, India, and other Eastern countries, the whole detail of government, from the most ancient accounts down to the present hour, can hardly be defined by any other description. We observe, in general, one great king, to whom a number of subordinate princes pay homage and tribute; all deviation from this system seeming merely temporary and accidental. Possessed of every essential power of royalty, the degree of dependence of those secondary kings, we find, has ever been proportioned to the vigour or imbecility of the paramount sovereign: for where no solid code of constitutional laws prevails, the brilliant or disgraceful periods in the history of a people will generally depend upon the genius of one man. A great monarch will give to the component parts the appearance of one despotic whole; whilst the approaches to disobedience will ever be proportioned to the weakness of administration. Constantly recurring, however, to the first principles, every variation of Oriental rule represents only, to our alternative view, an overgrown empire, feebly governed, crumbling into independent kingdoms; and independent kingdoms again uniting, to form the empire of some more fortunate and enterprising sovereign.

Khusro Perwez, the son of Hurmuz III (or IV), king of Persia of the Sassanian race. He by the assistance of the Roman emperor Maurice, after defeating Bahram Chobin, his father's general, who had taken possession of the kingdom, ascended the throne of Persia 591 A.D. The moment he was firmly established on the throne, he fulfilled in the most faithful manner the engagements he had entered into with his ally; and publicly adopted the emperor Maurice as his father; but when that emperor was slain in 603 A.D., he instantly declared war, on the grounds of avenging his father and benefactor. His generals invaded the Roman territories; Dara, Edesa, and other strong places on the frontier were soon subdued; Syria was completely pillaged, Palestine overrun, Jerusalem taken, and the true cross, which had been enclosed in a golden case, and buried deep in the earth, was discovered, and borne in triumph to Persia. His reign of more than 30 years was marked by a success never surpassed by the most renowned of his ancestors. Persia was, however, invaded by Heraclius the Roman emperor, who defeated the troops of Khusro whenever he encountered them, and marched, in one direction, as far as the Caspian, in another to Isfahan; destroying in his progress all his splendid palaces. plundering his hoarded treasures, and dispersing, in every direction, the countless slaves of his pleasures. The subjects of Khusro had lost all regard for a monarch whom they deemed the sole cause of the desolation of their country: a conspiracy was formed against him: he was seized by his eldest son Sheroya; his eighteen sons were massacred before his face. and he was cast into a dungeon, and soon afterwards died or was put to death in 628 A.D., 7 A.H., after he had reigned 38 years. The glory of the house of Chosroes ended with the life of Khusro.

7. Translate the following into Persian (rhythmical prose):-

Nadir Shah, also called Nadir Quli Khan, and Tahmasp Quli Khan, the greatest warrior Persia has ever produced. He was the son of a shepherd, born in the province of Khurasan, 1687 A.D., but by selling some of his father's sheep, he collected a number of desperate followers who shared his dangers and the booty gained in plundering caravans. By degrees he saw himself at the head of 6,000 brave adherents, and his assistance was solicited by Shah Tahmasp II, King of Persia, whose throne was usurped by Ashraf, the chief of the Afghans. With impetuous valour, Nadir attacked and routed the enemy, and then seated his master on the throne of his ancestors at Isfahan 1730 A.D. He then pursued the flying Afghans to Qandhar, and on his return, taking advantage of the odium created by an unfavourable treaty made by Shah Tahmasp with the Turks during his absence, he deposed the king; and his son, an infant of six months, he proclaimed Shah, by the name of Abbas III. This event took place on the 16th August, 1732 A.D., 1145 A.H. In his name, Nadir assumed to himself the sovereign power, and after having recovered all that had been taken from Persia he concluded a peace with the Ottoman Porte in 1736 A.D. On the death of the young Shah Abbas the same year, he signified his intention of resigning his honours; but the nobles, excited by his private intrigues, invested him with the sovereign power. The historian of Nadir is careful in informing us, that the crown of Persia was placed upon the head of the conqueror exactly at 20 minutes past 8 in the morning of the 26th February, 1736 A.D., Shawwal, 1148 A.H. Nadir, now elevated to the height of his ambition, wisely saw that war was the only support of his greatness, and therefore with a numerous army he marched against India in 1739. The Moghal empire was rapidly conquered, 200,000 men were put to the sword, and a booty of one hundred and forty-five millions, in which was the imperial throne set with diamonds of an immense value called the Peacock Throne, was brought away by him from Dehli. He latterly became capricious, proud and tyrannical, and was guilty of such cruelty, that the nobles conspired. against him and assassinated him on the night of Sunday the 10th May, 1747 A.D., 10th Jumada I, 1160 A.H., after he had regined 20 years over one of the most extensive and powerful

SIXTH PAPER.

Translate into Sanskrit :-

A

Friendship is the union of two persons in mutual affection and remembrance of one another. The friend can do for his friend what he cannot do for himself. He can give him counsel in time of difficulty; he can teach him "to see himself as others see him;" he can stand by him when all the world are against him; he can gladden and enlighten him by his presence; he "can divide his sorrows," he can "double his joys;" he can anticipate his wants. Among true friends jealousy has no place: they do not complain of one another for making new friends, or for revealing some secret of their lives (in friendship too there must be some reserves): they do not intrude upon one another, and they mutually rejoice in any good which happens to either of them, though it may be to the loss of the other. They may live apart and have little intercourse, but when they meet, the old tie is as strong as ever-according to the common saying, they find one another always the same. The greatest good of friendship is not daily intercourse, for circumstances rarely admit of this; but on the great occasions of life, when the advice of a friend is needed, then the word spoken in season about conduct, about health, about marriage, about business-the letter written from a distance by a disinterested person who sees with clearer eyes may be of inestimable value.

And

B.

The substance of the human eye is not light: on the contrary, the eye borrows at each moment the light of the sun's rays. So my mind is not the primitive Reason, the universal and immuable truth: it is only the medium that conveys this original light, that is illuminated by it. I find two reasons in myself—one is myself, the other is above me. That which is in me is very imperfect, uncertain, pre-occupied, precipitate, living, changing, conceited, ignorant and limited: it possesses nothing but what it borrows. The other is common to all men and superior to all: it is perfect, eternal, immutable, always ready to communicate itself in all places and to rectify all minds that are deceived; incapable of being exhausted or divided, although it gives itself to those that desire it. Where is this perfect Reason that is so near to me, yet so different from me? Where is it? It must be something real. Where is this supreme Reason? Is it not that God that I am seeking after?
